Discount to apple seeds Play Space

Posted Play Spaces by Thomas Sullivan on January 26th, 2010 at 1:00 pm

While many play spaces offer open play (a real boon in this recession), membership-only spots continue to thrive. With yearly fees averaging in the thousands, the cost can feel pretty daunting, which is why Chelsea's apple seeds is offering a sweet deal. New members who sign up before March 31 will get a month free. In addition to access to the indoor playground, you receive additional perks such as discounts on camps and classes, and free passes for your first-time visitors. And if you pay in installments, the $945 for 12 months doesn't seem so overwhelming (a little over 80 bucks a month). To get more information or to register, visit www.appleseeds.com.
